WELCOME

The building industry is today evolving very rapidly and broadening in equal measure. The ability to keep up with trends, challenges, policies, technologies, and systems to mention but a few requires the acquiring of knowledge and engaging in constant exchange of knowledge. Made the more pertinent by growing sustainability, environmental, and social concerns, this knowledge exchange drives human and capacity development that is relevant to current and emerging issues surrounding everyday living.

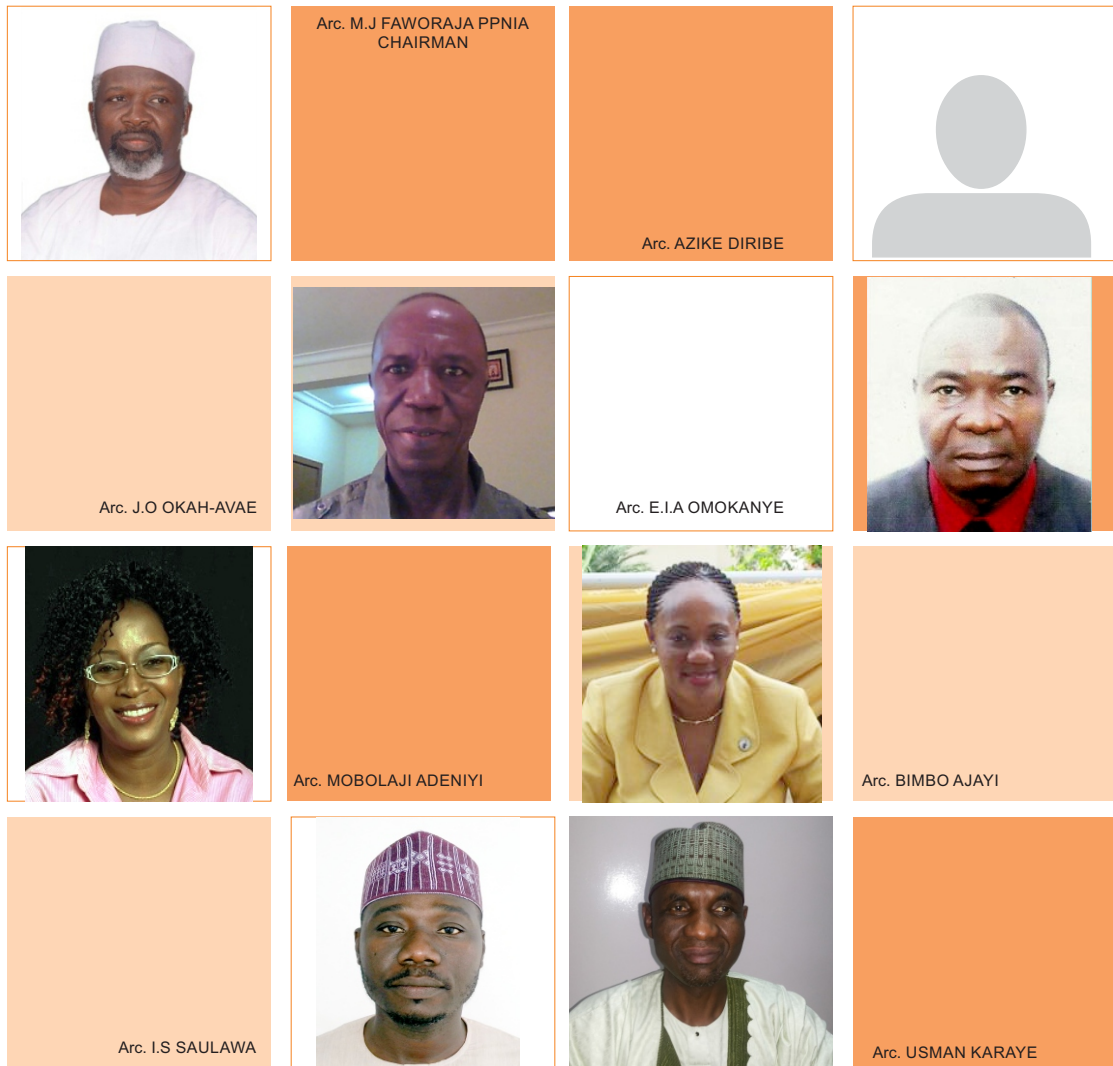

Addressing the needs of everyday living assumes a very high profile in the offerings of interventionist initiatives. The building industry, a critically key contributor to these initiatives, must remain in the forefront of the discourse by constantly engineering solutions relevant to everyday living. This forms the core of the theme for this program.

It is with this that I, on behalf of the President-in-Council and Archibuilt Development Services Limited, have the pleasure of welcoming you to Archibuilt 2013, the 24th edition of annual exhibition and exchange forum, themed “Solutions to Everyday Living”
